

FIRE DAMAGES
THE VATICAN

The Pope Telegraphs the Rome Firemen to Come to Aid in Stopping the Flames.

LIBRARY IS SAVED

Mayor and the Officials of Roman See Side by Side Fighting Fire.

Rome, Nov. 2.—Fire broke out at 8:30 Sunday evening in that portion of the Vatican containing the hall of inscriptions, where the Pope gives his audience, and which is adjacent to the famous Pinacoteca, or gallery of pictures. The alarm caused much confusion and excitement in the Vatican. Strenuous efforts were made to control the flames, and the firemen of Rome were called to lend their help. At 11:15 the fire was under control.

The Pope came to the scene in person and remained until the arrangements to fight the fire were completed. Causes Sensation.

The fire caused a greater sensation in Rome than has any other event since the death of Pope Leo. Fires in Rome are exceptional, because of the heavy stone and brick construction of the buildings, and the outbreak of flames in such a conspicuous place, wherein were many celebrated treasures, brought out great numbers of anxious people, in spite of the heavy rain which had been falling throughout the day.

The safety of the Pope was the first thought in every one's mind, but this was soon assured. When the pontiff arrived at the scene he ordered every one to assist in extinguishing the flames.

Pope Calls Roman Firemen.

The first intimation of fire was had when smoke was seen issuing from the apartment of M. Mario, which is located above that of Father Ehrle, the librarian, who lived over the library itself. M. Mario is a celebrated French restorer of ancient manuscripts and illuminated books; he is at present engaged in copying work. The famous Bramante staircase leads to that part of the Vatican where the fire broke out.

The moment the Pope arrived his mind grasped the gravity of the situation, and he ordered that the firemen of Rome be called. This was done by telegraph.

Library Is Damaged.

The entire museum of inscriptions, the rooms of Father Ehrle, part of the library, and the printing houses were entirely flooded with water. It is impossible to reach even an approximate idea of the extent of the damage. Many articles were saved, including some ancient and very valuable arms, which were recently moved to the library room from the Borga apartment in order to make room for the new residence of the papal secretary of state. Many things that escaped the flames were injured by water, especially the precious private library of Pope Leo, which Father Ehrle had been re-arranging in accordance with the last wish of the late pontiff.

Mayor Enters the Vatican.

Information had been sent the Italian authorities, who hurried to St. Peter's. They were courteously invited to enter and did so. Therefore, for the first time since the fall of the temporal power of the Vatican, the mayor of Rome, the prefect, police officials, and even Sig. Ronchetti, the newly appointed minister of justice, entered the Vatican in their official capacities. They gave orders directing the work of combating the flames and participated personally in the fight.

STUDENTS SUFFERING FROM THEIR INJURIES

Thirty-three Are in the New Richmond Hospital, Fifteen Being in a Serious Condition.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2.—William Bailey of New Richmond, Ind., the sixteenth victim of the Purdue football team wreck, died here Sunday from internal injuries.

There are thirty-four others still in the hospital here, and these thirty-three are Purdue students. Fifteen are in a serious condition.

The father of Student Bailey arrived before the boy died and has taken charge of the body.

Fourteen dead bodies have been shipped to their homes and the body of Joseph R. Powell of Corpus Christi, Tex., will be sent home in charge of Paul Sturn, an old classmate living here.

H. O. Wright of Perinton, Ind., substitute player, has a broken back, and his recovery is not thought probable. He is too weak to permit of an operation. His parents have arrived.

A. L. Holter of Oberlin, O., half back on the team, is suffering with both legs crushed and shock. He is also in a precarious condition. Slim Miller of Nineveh, Ind., who played end on the team, has one leg broken twice and the other crushed. It is believed, however, that he will recover. He is a brother of "Long John" Miller, who was captain of the Purdue team two years ago.

C. O. Tangeman of Fern Bank, O., student has a slight fracture of the skull, but it is believed will recover. He is improving.

C. C. Adams of Osgood, Ind., member of the band, has an injured spine and is in a precarious condition. It was not known until Sunday that he was hurt, as he was taken to the home of relatives.

Coch O. F. Cutts of North Anson, Me., who worked over the injured all day and night, was ordered to the hospital and will have both legs in plaster casts for several weeks. There are crushed bones in each ankle.

W. G. McMannus of Davenport, Ia., tackle on the team, is no weaker. Both of his legs are crushed.

H. G. Leslie of West Lafayette, captain of last year's team and this year's full back, has a broken leg and broken jaw.

G. W. Nichols of Philadelphia, Pa., student, who was injured in the right shoulder, is suffering from a profound shock and is in a serious condition. The physician declines to predict the outcome.

HALLOWEEN WAS VERY QUIET HERE

The Usual Annoying "Stunts" Were Conspicuous by Their Absence—No Arrests Made.

Janesville enjoyed one of the quietest Halloweens in its history. Some gatus and a few crosswalks were removed in the suburbs but few of the annoying tricks were played in the city. Horatio Nelson's front-door steps were spirited away but he seems to have been one of the very few sufferers. No arrests were made.

Messages in Beans There were many Halloween parties and the children had a good time with their innocent amusements. Residents of Park Place and neighborhood found curious and interesting messages spelled out with beans on the porches Sunday morning. Some of them were: "We Like You," "Oh, Go In and Let Me Sleep," and "Home, Sweet Home."

STATE NOTES

The Baraboo Presbyterian church has extended a call to the Rev. Robert D. Scott, D. D., of Chicago, who will replace the Rev. H. H. Van Vranken, who resigned on account of ill health.

Frank Carr, of Superior, aged 45, is supposed to have drowned in the bay some time during the night. He was loading a boat at the Freeman mill and disappeared, leaving behind his coat and lunch pail.

The body of an unknown man was found, crushed and mangled, near the Chicago & North-Western track at Little Chute, near Kaukauna, this morning.

Because the city of Baraboo has refused to pay for water which it declares caused an epidemic of typhoid fever, it has been made defendant in a suit for $9,000 back hydrant rental by the local company. The actual amount involved is but $5,000, as the city claims an offset of $4,000 in unpaid taxes.

Christopher Peterson of Menominee Falls was killed and six others narrowly escaped injury in a runaway in Milwaukee yesterday afternoon. An automobile which raced past a heavily laden dray, frightened the team and the accident followed.

A lodge of Knights of Columbus with sixty charter members was organized at Baraboo Sunday. A large delegation from Janesville attended the initiation.

At Hayward at four o'clock Sunday morning a car containing C. W. Ogden's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" troupe was pushed from its siding on to the main track just before the coming of a special freight. The moving of the car awakened one of the company, and he hurried to investigate, only in time to seize a lantern and stop the freight train. It is believed that members of a late Halloween party loosened the brakes of the car.

REDSKINS FIGHT

Turn on a Posse and Kill One Man, Wounding Several Others—Indians Led by Sioux, Who Had Been at the Carlisle Indian School.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.)

Cheyenne, Nov. 2.—The last advice from the scene of Saturday's battle between Deputy Sheriff Miller and his posse assisted by a company of state militia and a band of Crow Indians shows that the battle waged fiercely while it lasted and that Deputy Miller was shot through his thigh and may die and Deputy Chas. Faulkenburg was killed. Two other deputies were wounded and three Crow Indians were killed and many others wounded. Hundreds of armed men are flocking to the camp of the soldiers and it is feared a big fight will follow. Unless the Indians get a big start they can not get away and the present temper of the settlers may result in a wholesale massacre of the red skins which may bring other Indians from the reservations and make serious trouble.

A telegram has just been received by the Governor which states that two deputies have reached New Castle with the bodies of Sheriff Miller and Deputy Faulkenburg. Miller died an hour after being shot. Six Indians were killed, ten wounded, and five captured. The posse bearing the prisoners, horses and effects are coming to New Castle. Four Indians escaped. There were twenty-five red skins in the fight led by a Sioux named Smith, a graduate of Carlisle. Thirteen white were on the fight; Black Kettle, notorious Sioux, shot Miller. A posse man then killed Black Kettle.

INDIANS AND SHERIFF
BATTLE IN WYOMING

Official, Deputy and Three of the Redskins Are Reported Killed by the Posse.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 2.—Gov. Chatterton has been advised of a battle between a band of Crow Indians under Charley Elk and a Western county posse under Sheriff W. H. Miller which occurred on Little Lightning creek, fifty miles north of Lusk.

Sheriff Miller and one of his deputies and three Indians are reported to have been killed and several others wounded.

The trouble was caused by Indian slaughtering game and killing cattle and sheep. The sheriff and his posse went after them and captured the squaws and camp outfit and were in chase of the band of bucks, numbering twenty-five, when the fight occurred.

Only the most meager details have been received. Poses have left Lusk Douglas and Newcastle for the scene and citizens of Newcastle have asked the governor to order troops into the field to run down the Indians, who are reported to have fled in the direction of the Bad Lands of northern Nebraska.

The governor is investigating and may order out one troop of cavalry to assist the sheriff and his posse.

A serious outbreak is feared if the Indians are overtaken before they reach the reservation, for they have said that they were compelled to hunt in order to live and will resist any effort to arrest them.

TROOPS TO HEDGE
RUSSIA'S C Z A R

Kaiser Sends Many Regiments to Guard His Imperial Brother's Visit.

Frankfurt, Nov. 2.—The extraordinary number of troops about to be drafted into Wiesbaden for the arrival there of the czar is beginning to attract much attention and comment. Regiments are coming from Mayence, Frankfurt, Homburg, Glessen, and Paderborn, while from Berlin the czar's own guard regiment is coming to reinforce the six infantry regiments already in Wiesbaden.

It is reported that such a strong guard was made at the special request of the czar, but the more probable reason is the Kaiser's well known love for military display whenever opportunity offers.

The Frankfurter Nachrichten waxes indignant over a strong anti-German article recently appearing in the St. Petersburg.

TOWN WRECKED
BY EXPLOSION

Two Carloads of Dynamite Exploded in a Railway at Crestline, Ohio.

HOUSES DAMAGED

Effect of the Shock Is Felt All Over the Place--

Many Persons Injured.

Crestline, O., Nov. 2.—Two cars loaded with dynamite exploded in the Pennsylvania railroad yards at 8 o'clock Sunday night, shaking the entire city like an earthquake, throwing the population into a panic, and doing immense damage.

Two men, who were half a mile away from the scene of the explosion, were seriously injured. They are Yardmaster Courtier and a clerk named Geisinger, employees of the railroad company. The yard office in which they were working was destroyed.

The vicinity of the explosion is a tangled mass of wreckage and it is not known whether any was killed. Hundreds of men are searching the ruins for dead or injured.

Wreckage Takes Fire.

Church congregations were thrown into a panic and ran screaming from their buildings. The church doors were blown in and windows smashed. The entire west yards of the road were completely wrecked. Officials of the railroad have said that there are not less than 350 cars smashed. The wrecked cars were set fire by the explosion.

Where the explosion took place a hole twenty feet wide, twice as long, and fifteen feet deep was torn in the ground. Engines a mile away were thrown from the track.

Flying Glass Causes Injury.

In the downtown portion of the city there is not a building that has not suffered considerable damage. Many persons who were on the streets were cut by flying glass, and hundreds of women are in a serious condition from shock and concussion. The streets were filled with people who did not wish to go home until late at night. The mayor has sworn in many extra policemen to guard the property.

The full extent of the loss to property will not be known for many days. The explosion was plainly heard fifty miles away. Telegrams have been sent to Cleveland and Pittsburgh for an almost unlimited supply of glass.

TAX PAYERS ARE SLOW THIS YEAR

City Treasurer Fathers Besieged Today by Property Owners—Unpaid List Is Large.

Saturday was the time limit for the payment of the city's taxes and Treasurer James Fathers has been kept busy attending to the constant line of property holders that has besieged the treasurer's window since the opening of the city hall this morning. The payments have been unusually slow this year and the list of unpaid taxes is large after today will be large. It is hard to assign a reason for the late payments this year, according to the city hall officials. The times have been prosperous and the residents of Janesville have less to complain of so far as these levies are concerned, than those living in many other towns. The position of city treasurer at this time is no sinecure and the railway ticket seller has a snap compared to the man who has to hear the complaints of those who have to pay taxes and do not want to. Some criticisms and fault findings by those who own city property are amusing as well as tiresome. Not long ago a woman was surprised at the increased tax on her property this year and was objecting to the amount. After some useless argument, she said, "Well, I might as well give the whole house and be done with it." The man behind the window has to smile through it all.

Many Knights Go to Baraboo: Knights of Columbus numbering a hundred left Janesville for Baraboo Sunday morning on a special train to attend a state gathering. A good sized delegation went from the Line City also and all united in praising the hospitality of the Baraboo members of the order. Smith's orchestra accompanied the delegates from the Bower City and at the banquet J. J. Cunningham was one of the principal speakers.

Former Rock County Resident: Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Payson of Macomb, Mo., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Lane. Many old settlers will remember Mr. Payson and be glad to welcome him back after his long absence.

The waterworks tunnel at Cleveland, O., that has cost fifty lives and millions of money, has been opened after years of work.

MANY ATTENDED CONGREGATIONAL

CHURCH, SUNDAY EVENING—A GOOD SERMON.

G. A. R. DELEGATION PRESENT

Rev. Denison Spoke on "Over Confidence"—Welcomed Grand Army Men.

Rev. Mr. Denison preached last evening before a large number at the Congregational church. About forty of the G. A. R. men attended the service in a body. Mr. Denison took for his subject "Over-Confidence," and began his sermon with the story of Samson and Delilah, relating how Delilah, the traitress, enticed Samson to tell her the secret of his great strength, so that she might deliver him unto his enemies, the Philistines.

His Trials

The first time he said unto her, to bind him with seven green withs, and then he would be weak. She did so and then called, "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson," and he broke the withs as a thread of tow. Again she asked him and he bid her bind him with new ropes, but with the same result, he broke them from his arms like a thread. A third time she entreated him and at his telling, wove seven locks of his hair with a web and fastened them with a pin of the beam, but he arose and walked out with the beam still in his hair. Finally, veiled with her pleadings, he told her the truth, that he had been consecrated to God in his youth, and as a symbol of this, his hair. Finally, tired with her this were to be done his strength would go from him and he would be like any other man. So while he slept with his head on her knees, she had seven locks from his head shaved, and when he attempted to do part, his strength was gone and the Philistines took him and imprisoned him and put out his eyes.

Courage Most Desired

"If there is any virtue that all of us most desire," said Mr. Denison, "it is courage, but there is such a thing as being too brave. There is something of the soldier in all of us, but some are recklessly brave, and over-estimate the strength of our enemies." He spoke of a young man starting out in life, how apt he was to follow little errors, to do wrong things that did not seem to amount to much, thinking that he was strong; these things could not hurt him, although they might other people, and in this very self-confidence lies the element of danger. "We would better trifle with dynamite, than impurity or play with the tempest or the hurricane as with that which is wrong."

Over-Confidence

Several illustrations of over-confidence were given, among them that of a football team, which has to take into consideration before a contest with a rival team, the weight and quickness of their opponents and their ability to work together, not each man for himself. If they are too sure of winning, too confident of success, they are very apt to lose; over-confidence has ruined many a football team's prospects. The great Poe, with his keen and brilliant wit, was killed by liquor, Byron and Shelley were ruined by pride and lust and Samson's mistake was over-confidence. "One of the most striking things in this strong man's life was that he was consecrated to God when young, by his mother, and as long as he had strength of soul, as long as he was true to it, he was strong."

"When we believe in the glory of our consecration to God we shall do great things, but we need more than the strength of the body something more than rich red blood and muscles, we need intellectual keenness, we need strength of soul, and consecration to Christ."

Welcomed G. A. R.

Rev. Mr. Denison welcomed the members of the G. A. R. at the close of his sermon, and said that the thing he would like to give each young man was not great riches nor great fame, nor even great wisdom, but was something of that which those men of the Grand Army of the Republic had possessed—their love of country and their purity and strength of soul, "which would make him a glorious citizen of this great republic."

Town Talks

The ordinarily peaceful precincts of Park Place were disturbed the other evening by a yell of terror calculated to make the red blood circulate huddle together and assume a sky blue hue. It issued from a back yard on the hill side. Neighbors rushed to their windows and looking out into the starry night saw a big man running with a bucket.

He was not making for a fire alarm box or the water faucet. He was just sprinting from some unseen terror and all his accumulated energies were centered in that flight. The back door of his residence was reached and closed with a slam. Still no sign of a pursuer. Neighbors, wherever two of them were gathered together, looked at one another mystified.

Then, without perceptible change to the eye or ear, the night began to undergo a vague, indefinite transformation. A scent, not redolent of the spices of the east, smote the olfactory nerves. The glorious night became hateful. The neighbors hastily closed their windows. The large man will empty no more potato-peelings after sunset. He is building a cable-carrier from his kitchen door to the ash barrel.

NEW LAND LAWS NEEDED BADLY

The Present System Should Be Changed, and Saved for Future Generations.

The recent action of the Wyoming Industrial convention at Sheridan, Wyoming, in declaring its inflexible opposition to the repeal of the Desert Land Act, the commutation clause of the Homestead Act and the Timber and Stone Act is indicative of the attitude which may be expected of certain western interests on any land legislation hostile to the speculator and the live stock baron. In the hot debate at the Ogden irrigation congress, of a few weeks previous, the issue was on the merits of these land laws and the fierce demand for their repeal, which has arisen in various parts of the United States.

Several western congressmen who participated opposed the repeal of the laws, but at the same time referred with pride, to the part they had taken in assisting in the passage of the National Irrigation Act. Not one of these gentlemen seemed to realize the inconsistency involved in opposing the repeal of the Desert Land Law, in one breath, and in the next breath gloating over the triumph of national irrigation. What are the facts?

The Desert Land Law permits a single individual to acquire 320 acres of irrigable land. With the assistance of his good wife, the same individual may take up 640 acres. And he need not live upon the land at all. He can make some little improvement and swear that he has made some sort of arrangement to irrigate it, when he gets title by paying $1.25 an acre. Under such provisions, it is indeed easy for speculators to obtain land to sell out later to real homesteaders at a big profit, or to consolidate into large holdings. This is the law which the congressmen preferred to insist upon keeping upon the statute books.

A Right Land Law.

Now, what is done with the lands when the National Irrigation Act is in operation? First, they are absolutely withdrawn from entry while the feasibility of the project is under consideration.

Next, the secretary of the interior is empowered to fix the amount of land which a single individual may acquire, but is forbidden to fix a larger unit than 160 acres, or a smaller unit than 40 acres, in any instance. Finally, the settler is compelled to live upon and cultivate the land which he claims for his home, and he must live there not for five years, but ten years, which is the period fixed for the repayment of the government's expenditure.

In other words, every claim made by the advocates of the repeal of existing land laws is absolutely conceded in the terms of the National Irrigation Act. So far as the areas to be covered by the new policy are concerned, the Desert Land Law and the commutation clause of the Homestead Law stand repealed. And the nation has thereby declared its uncompromising attitude on the issue debated at Ogden.

Now, then, what becomes of the consistency of the aforesaid congressmen? Are they not standing on both sides of the question at the same time? By voting for the National Irrigation Act, they declared that no citizen ought to have more than 160 acres of irrigable land from the public domain, and in some instances he ought not to have more than 40 acres. Then now can they consistently demand that citizens shall continue to take 320 acres under the Desert Land Law?

By voting for National Irrigation, they declared that a settler must actually live upon his land ten years before getting title to it. Then how can they consistently demand that men shall obtain title without occupying the land at all, as they are now doing.

A congressman may consistently claim that the present laws are good and that the National Irrigation Act is bad. He can claim that the present laws are bad and that the National Irrigation Act is good. But he cannot maintain the proposition that both are good, because they are diametrically opposed in fundamental respects.

It may be asked, why repeal present land laws if National Irrigation makes the proper provision for safeguarding the people's interests. The answer is that the new policy is only in its experimental stages and cannot extend over the entire irrigable public domain for many decades. In the meantime, speculators are quietly taking the most valuable land and defeating one of the prime objects of the new law, WILLIAM E. SMYTHE.

St. Louis World's Fair.

The authorized organization for soliciting exhibits for the World's Fair are operating in their several lines in the state. Wm. Geo. Bruce, representing the committee on educational exhibits, has issued a circular that contains important information, and he will mail copies to individuals upon application. In a late announcement he suggested that scarcely sixty school days now remain for the completion and delivery of exhibits at Milwaukee.

It is hoped that a display of products gathered from each part of Wisconsin's model school system, will be placed in possession of Chairman Bruce so that the visitor at St. Louis may be duly impressed with the adequacy of the educational resources of the state, when compared to the sources of material wealth. Applications for circulars should be made to Wm. Geo. Bruce, care of City Hall, Milwaukee, and applications for space for exhibits should be filed prior to Nov. 17.

Mrs. John Henning, St. Paul, was all run down—weak and nervous. Rocky Mountain Tea made a new woman of her. Gained nearly fifty pounds. 35 cents. Smith's Pharmacy.

LABOR TALK FOR WORKMEN

Gossip From All Over.

In Osaka, which is called the Manchester of Japan, there are extensive cotton factories, paper mills, railroad and machine shops. The workers in none of these places are organized. Wages for men in the cotton mills are from eleven to thirty cents a day; for boys, from six to nine cents, and for girls, from three and a half to six cents. The working day consists of eleven hours. Building mechanics receive from thirty-five to fifty cents a day, and work ten hours.

The report of Adolph Strasser of Buffalo, the umpire to whom was left the question of amalgamation of the two national organizations of carpenters, was received by President Huber of the United States Brotherhood in Indianapolis last week. By the report the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners are to be merged into one organization on January 1, 1905. The new organization shall take the name of the Brotherhood.

Comptroller of the Treasury Tracewell has given an adverse opinion in the appeal taken by W. A. Miller, assistant foreman of the government printing office bindery, from the action of the auditor of the state department and other departments in disallowing the claim put in by him for compensation for the sixty-three days of his suspension and dismissal from the government printing office. The comptroller holds that Miller is not an officer, but an employee, subject to the dismissal at the pleasure of the public printer, and that he cannot be paid for work not performed.

The Labor Gazette, published by the Canadian government, has the following data about organized labor in the dominion:

"Ontario heads the list of provinces in respect to the number of labor unions, with 853; British Columbia follows, with 216; Quebec coming third, with 202. Nova Scotia has 93; New Brunswick, 66; Prince Edward Island, 14; Manitoba, 63; the Northwest Territories, 46; and the Yukon, 13. The grand total for the dominion is accordingly 1,551.

"Reckoned by cities, Toronto, with 134 unions, contains the biggest number of labor organizations, Montreal stands second with 102, and Vancouver, third, with 68; Hamilton, with 58; Ottawa, with 49; Winnipeg, with 49; London, with 47; Quebec, with 42; Victoria, with 34; Kingston, with 31; and St. John, N. B., with 30, are the other prominent centers of trade-unionism in Canada.

JUPITER BRIGHT IN EVENING SKY

Greatest of All Planets Favorably Situated at Present for Star Gazers.

Jupiter, more than a thousand times the size of the earth and whose mass is more than double that of all the other planets combined, is now a conspicuous and beautiful object high in the early evening sky. It is near the meridian and very favorably situated for observation.

Mercury and Venus are morning stars. The former, however, is not favorably situated for observation, and passes through superior conjunction November 21. Venus is the most brilliant star in the morning sky. The planet reaches western elongation November 28, but is already past its maximum brilliancy owing to the fact that its orbital motion is taking it continually farther from the earth. The remaining three bright planets are seen in the evening sky. The first, Mars, is situated low in the southwest and sets at an early hour. Saturn, at a low altitude in the south, comes next in the diurnal procession and is already near or past the meridian at nightfall. The times of sunrise and sunset for the month are as follows:

Sunrise—Nov. 1 at 6:31; Nov. 11 at 6:44; Nov. 21 at 6:57; Nov. 30 at 7:8.

Sunset—Nov. 1 at 4:51; Nov. 11 at 4:39; Nov. 21 at 4:30 and Nov. 31 at 4:24.

The times of the moon's phases are: Full moon Nov. 4 at 11:28 p. m.; third quarter, Nov. 11 at 8:46 p. m.; new moon, Nov. 18 at 11:10 p. m.; first quarter, Nov. 26 at 11:37 p. m. The principal fixed stars visible during the month in the evening hours are to the west, Vega and Altair; to the east, Aldebaran, the Pleiades and Capella.

ANDREW ROBSON IN "RICHARD CARVEL"

Good Sized Audience Witnessed the Play at Myers' Grand, Saturday Night.

A good-sized audience greeted Andrew Robson and his company in "Richard Carvel" at the Myers Grand Saturday evening. The play was well staged and the costumes and setting in the third act were particularly good. Andrew Robson in the name-part was very good and Hale Norcross as Sir Horace Walpole; Burton Downing as the duke of Charterhouse; and Alfred Kendall as Lord North; were also excellent in their respective parts. The feminine parts were not so well taken. The play is not a strong one. Richard Carvel's love for Dorothy Manners and the attempt of the wicked duke to marry her against her will, aided by the duplicity of an unscrupulous father, form the threadbare plot. The daintiness and the coquettishness of Dorothy, which form the chief attraction of the book, are lacking in the play. Lake's orchestra was applauded for a rendition of "The Telephone Girl" between the acts.

ELEVEN STATES VOTE, TUESDAY

FULL TICKETS VOTED IN MANY OF THEM.

OHIO THE SCENE OF BATTLE

Lively Fight on in the West—Iowa Results Looked for with Interest.

Elections will be held in eleven states Tuesday. Full state tickets are to be voted for in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, Ohio, Kentucky, Iowa, and Mississippi, while in New York, Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Colorado, a justice of the upper courts, regents of the state university or minor state officers are to be chosen. Municipal officials are to be elected in Greater New York, San Francisco and Salt Lake.

The prohibitionists have a ticket in all the states except Colorado, and the socialists in all except Nebraska and Colorado, the populists in two states—Iowa and Colorado—and the social labor party in three—New York, Massachusetts and Ohio. Fusion was affected in only one state—Nebraska—though the republicans of New York endorsed the democratic nominee for judge of the court of appeals.

In the East, the most interesting contests in the east are the state elections in Maryland and Rhode Island, and the municipal county contests in New York city.

In Maryland the offices of governor, comptroller and attorney general will be filled. Edwin Wardell, the democratic candidate, is fighting the issue with Stevenson A. Williams, the republican nominee.

The offices of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general and treasurer will be selected in Rhode Island. Samuel P. Colt heads the republican ticket, and Lucius Garvin, the present executive, occupies the same position on the democratic ticket. Last year Garvin upset the plans of the republicans by securing an election, although every other successful candidate was a republican.

Pennsylvania will select an auditor general, treasurer and two judges of the superior court. In the west the liveliest contest is in Ohio, where Myron T. Herrick and Hon. Tom L. Johnson, both of Cleveland, are the leaders on the republican and democratic tickets, and Marcus A. Hanna and John H. Clark are struggling for members of the legislature which will elect a United States senator.

MANY HUNTERS SEEK THIS STATE

Residents of Several Other States Secure Licenses to Hunt in Our Woods.

Wisconsin seems to be the mecca for the nimrods of other states. The record for small game licenses for non-residents has already reached a point higher than for all of last year and the multiplication of applications for deer hunting licenses seems to indicate that more non-residents will seek to kill these animals this year in Wisconsin than hitherto. Last year at this date there were issued 238 small game licenses to non-residents, for which a $10 fee is collected by Wisconsin. Yesterday there had been issued 287 of these and the demand has hardly abated. Saturday five of these licenses were issued to a party of Ohio hunters, among whom is James M. Jones of Van Wert, Ohio. He is 72 years old and the number of his license is 72. The "big man" record of the warden's office thus far this season is J. H. Ray of Joliet, Ill., sheriff of Will county. His description says he is 44 years old, six feet and three inches in height and weighs 300 pounds. He is not a fat man but well proportioned and of such build and active disposition that he would cause a champion football coach to leap for joy should he be available for a great gridiron contest.

The total number of non-resident small game licenses issued last year was 260. Last year the total number of deer licenses issued, the $25 kind, was 293. Today there had been issued 74 of these, and at the same date a year ago the number issued was 65. The new hunters' licenses issued to homesteaders and actual settlers who have not been in the state a year and consequently unable to qualify for the ordinary resident licenses, are being issued daily, there having been 189 of them taken out thus far. These cost $1 each.

BOY HAS HEAD CRUSHED

Son of Beloit Insurance Agent Near Death.

Harry Goldworthy, son of C. W. Goldworthy, the Beloit insurance agent, was struck on the head with some part from a hay baling machine which he was helping operate on a farm near Beloit, Thursday afternoon. He was found in an unconscious condition with his skull crushed about five o'clock. The accident occurred on the Huckleby farm east of the city, where the boy had been employed. Medical aid was summoned and the victim was taken to Beloit where his injuries were attended to and everything possible done to alleviate his sufferings. It is not known how the accident happened, but from the appearance of the wound it would seem that he had been hit with some part of the apparatus. His head had received a cut two inches long and an inch wide and part of the skull had been forced into the brain. There is little hope of his recovery.

JANESVILLE WON AGAIN SATURDAY

Games Will Now Be Arranged by Board of Control State Athletic Association.

Janeville is still victorious after four good games and it is evident that they will try harder than ever for the next contest. It was a mere chance that they won the game of last Saturday and their play was probably the worst of any game so far this season. It was evident that they were over-confident and the experience gained in the tussle with Whitewater will, in all likelihood, help them to victory in the next game.

The Whitewater eleven showed the best team work and was considerably the quickest of the two, but the Janeville men held their own more by their individual efforts. In this they played a fine game. When Whitewater had the ball, they invariably made good gains and even after a successful tackle advances were made again and again. There was some fumbling on both sides.

With exception of the games already arranged for, the local team will now be under the management of the Board of Control of the State Athletic association, which will pick out the winning teams who wish to try for the championship. On November 14th, the East Side Milwaukee eleven will play here and although this team has not made a star record it will probably put up a good game. It is expected that there will be quite a delegation from the Cream City to help the team win.

BLACK, The Manager

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, November 2, 1863.—An important election is to be held tomorrow in this state. We trust the people of this city realize its transcendent interest. It is not alone that we are to elect state officers, but the people are also to show their detestation of copperheadism. The larger the majority against the friends of the rebels the greater will be the influence of our vote. Turn out, tomorrow, and give one day to your country. Work all day. Entreat your friends not to vote for H. L. Palmer. Look after the old and feeble and get them to the polls early. Hunt up the lagards and the heedless. We must have 20,000 majority in Wisconsin against the copperhead ticket.

Capt. Jay has lately arrived from Japan, where he has been travelling for the past five years in search of Chinese and Japanese curiosities. His collection is on exhibition next door to Richardson's store. Go and see them.

New Store.—E. Herstadt has rented the store first door south of the Main street entrance of the Myers House, formerly occupied as a hat store. He is now receiving a large assortment of dry goods, fancy goods ready made clothing, gents' furnishings, hats and caps, which he promises to sell at low prices.

Another New Store.—W. H. Brown a manufacturer of hats and caps from Auburn, N. Y., has purchased the stock in the store of Mr. Hollister, and removed it to the adjoining store in Myers' block, where he will add a new and large stock of goods, including a costly lot of furs. Such evidences of growth of the business of the city is indeed gratifying.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Times' special.—A gentleman just from Richmond says the rebel government is seizing all boots and shoes in that city for the use of Lee's army, which is almost barefooted.

Depopulation of Ireland.—A Dublin correspondent of the Tablet, a Catholic paper, writing under date of October 9th, has this significant paragraph: "Still decreasing, man, and beast, and produce. The annual returns of the register general for the present year shows a state of things in Ireland unparalleled, I dare say, in any other country in the world. To begin with the failures relating to human business, form these official documents we learn that in the seven months which passed of the present year, 80,699 persons left Ireland, being an increase of $4,687 over 1862; there is a decrease compared with 1862, of 114,719 acres of land under cereal crops, and a net decrease of 19,358 acres under green crops, compared with last year. The number of head of cattle in Ireland has also considerably decreased since 1862. At this rate it would not be a very difficult exercise to calculate the period when Ireland may be expected to be a desert island."

HIGH HONOR FOR JANESVILLE BOY

Ward Ryan Is Given Medal and Money for Heroism in Rescuing Webber.

Ward Ryan of this city has been presented with a silver medal and twenty-five dollars in gold by the Life Saving Benevolent association of New York city, in recognition of his heroism in saving the life of his friend, Joseph Webber. The rescue happened last summer while the two boys were fishing in Rock river near Monterey. They were casting their lures near the stone abutment of the bridge and Webber slipped on the loose shelling rock and fell into the swift rushing stream. He could not swim and would have drowned but for his friend, who without a moment's hesitation plunged in after him and struggled to the bank. The news of the deed has spread over the entire country. The father of the rescued boy, presented Ward Ryan with a gold watch soon after the rescue. Ryan, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ryan, of South Main street, is probably the first in Janesville to receive this honor of which he may well be proud. The inscription on the medal is "Presented to Ward Ryan in recognition of his courage and humanity in rescuing at so much personal peril his comrade from drowning in Rock river, near Janesville, Wis., Sept. 7, 1903."

Gospel of Interests to Railroad Men.
North Western Road.
The Chicago delegation to the Madison game riding in "sidedoor Pullmans" failed to materialize for the very good reason that the railroad authorities will under no consideration knowingly permit passengers to ride in box cars. Careless people that sometimes ride in the cabooses sitting in chairs with their feet perched up on the stove or sills, are not infrequently seriously hurt by a sudden jolt when the air sets. The danger of injury would be increased in the case of box cars and those sustaining them would be in most cases be quite ready to sue the company for damages.

Engineer Frank Pruner, of the Watertown run, was the victim of much good natured chaffing in the railroad yards yesterday. His engine remains in Watertown over Sunday and it is his custom to take a freight train back after spending the day in Janesville. Yesterday afternoon he politely allowed Conductor Lewis to swing onto the caboose first. He then seized hold of the handle bar and attempted to land himself. The spectators claim that he was swung through the air like a kite but soon tumbled of this bird-like passage and let go of the bar. He was not injured in body but the oft repeated inquiries as to how long he had been on the railroad hurt his feelings.

Blacksmith Nicholson was repairing a "mud turtle frog" this morning. When asked the reason for this rather unusual combination of names, he said that the frog deserved it because it was "so low down."

Engineer A. L. Wolcott, of the north Wisconsin division resumed work yesterday.

Conductor Keeler of the way freight is laying off. Conductor Burnett is relieving him.

St. Paul Road.
Farmers living in the vicinity of Dundee's Crossing, about three miles and a half north of Janesville were yesterday engaged in the unusual Sunday morning occupation of laying an extension of the St. Paul road. There was no room on the sidetrack for the "empires," on which they desired to load their sugar-beets, and the railroad had not shown a disposition to do anything about it. So they procured some rails and ties and proceeded to add about thirty-five feet to the track.

Two trains of twelve and fourteen coaches, respectively, carried the Chicago delegation back from Madison Saturday night. A man standing on the platform when the first train arrived made a jump at an open window to secure one of the Chicago flags, just as the train was pulling out, and was thrown backward on the platform and badly bruised.

The sidetrack at Ranney is now ready for service.

England's Iron Imports.
The large imports of iron ore into England—about one-third of the total amount consumed—is not due to any fear of the exhaustion of the supply in Great Britain, but to a desire to save the nonphosphorous iron used in the acid process. There is a large, almost unlimited supply of iron, containing phosphorus in Scotland and in the Cleveland and Staffordshire mines. The imported ore is largely from Bilbao, Spain.

FAMOUS HOUSE FOR UNCLE JOE

Illinois's Daughter Will Be Hostess in Washington Mansion.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Congressman Cannon as speaker will live at 1014 Vermont avenue. This house was built by John R. McPherson when he came to the senate from New Jersey, and during his occupancy it was the scene of much social festivity. Then Senator Hale's family lived in it while the Zack Chandler house at Sixteenth and K streets, where they now live, was going up. Afterward the Wetmores had the house for a while. Last winter it was occupied by the McCormicks of Chicago, the head of the house now being ambassador to Russia. The mistress of the house will be Miss Helen Cannon, the congressman's unmarried daughter, who, having lived with her father during practically all of his life in congress, has a host of acquaintances and friends in Washington. Mrs. Cannon died several years ago.

REVIEW OF THE GRIDIRON GAMES

Results of Battle Leave Four Teams Contenders for the Championship.

With Wisconsin beaten by Chicago, Minnesota and Michigan playing a tie game and Northwestern victor over Illinois by one point the western championship contests are in a strange muddle. Thus far Michigan looks like the champion with perhaps Minnesota to contest the title but strange things happen in football. Should Wisconsin win from Northwestern, Michigan and Minnesota, and Michigan def at Chicago, Wisconsin could lay claim to the premier team in the west. This is of course merely a probability but if the spirit evinced at Madison after the game is any criterion of what the university means to do in its future games Wisconsin should win if only on the support of the team by the students.

A Possibility
The Chicago Tribune sums up the matter as follows:

The games yet to be played, which have a distinct bearing on the championship, are: Chicago-Michigan, Minnesota-Wisconsin, Northwestern-Wisconsin. On the results of these games much depends. The possibilities are these:

If Chicago beats Michigan, and Wisconsin defeats Minnesota and Northwestern, Chicago will be the only unbeaten team. If Michigan beats Wisconsin and Chicago and Wisconsin wins its two big games, Michigan will be the only team with a clear record. If Minnesota beats Wisconsin, Michigan beats Chicago.

and Wisconsin beats Michigan and Northwestern, Minnesota will be the leader. If Northwestern beats Wisconsin, Wisconsin beats Minnesota and Michigan, and Michigan beats Chicago, Northwestern can claim first honors. This last looks like a long shot, but these four are the only possibilities for any team to show a score sheet unmarred by defeat. An unbroken series of victories for Wisconsin, with a defeat for Chicago on Thanksgiving day, would give Curtis' team a chance to claim first rank. Other combinations of defeats and victories would result in various ties.

Yale Strongest in East
In the east everything points toward Yale as the championship team. Princeton, however, will be a strong contender for honors. Harvard looks to be pretty well out of it. The Harvard-Pennsylvania game next Saturday will be the only really big game east or west.

True to His Principles.
Miss Katherine Tynan relates that politics generally does not interfere with the co-operative work which Sir Horace Plunkett has made successful in Ireland. "But there is a case on record," she says, "in which at a meeting held to establish a creamery in County Limerick a local politician got on his feet and asked: 'Is butter to be made on sound national principles in this creamery?'"

THE OUTLOOK.
Henry Clews, the New York banker, closes his last letter with the following encouraging summary:
"Beyond financial precincts the outlook though conflicting is not discouraging. Everyone is familiar with the fact that agriculture, the backbone of the nation, has just secured another profitable harvest. The mercantile classes are also in good shape. There has been little if any overtrading of importance; our merchants having escaped the speculative frenzy which so nearly overwhelmed Wall street. The least satisfactory feature in the outlook is the industrial situation, which is suffering from the consequences of the trust mania and labor agitation. Both capital and labor have been aiming at monopoly; both have been violating natural laws, both have been working on the lines opposed to the strongest impulses of human nature, and both may pay the penalty. Capital has already taken considerable of its punishment, and labor is beginning to see the inexorable consequences of unwise leadership. Now that the iron boom is over the inflation based upon those phenomena is rapidly passing away. It must not be forgotten that we are just leaving behind the most extraordinary movement in iron the world ever saw, its chief source being the practical rebuilding of American railways during the last five years. This being accomplished the iron trade must subside to normal conditions. Possibly this may mean a period of temporary prostration; but with lower prices other demands will develop and the export trade is open as a safety valve. Other industries are in much better shape than the iron trade, and there are few signs of overproduction, the only restraint upon business being the high prices induced by high costs of production. Nevertheless, outside of the above drawbacks the outlook is for at least another six months of good business. Railroad traffic continues undiminished, and there are no serious signs of reaction in either the West or South. The Wall Street collapse is likely to exercise a restraining influence all through the country; it is even conceivable that in some districts a slight falling off may be experienced, but the business situation as a whole affords no good reason for discouragement. When the inevitable readjustment is more complete the outlook will be still brighter.
Monetary conditions show steady improvement. Liquidation is likely to soon result in a contraction of loans; speculative requirements will continue limited, and the crop movement, though late, will soon be at its height. Less and less fear is indulged as to stringency, and those who control credit are agreed in a policy of conservatism. After the first week in January the money market should show increasing ease."

NO TAX THIS YEAR.
The state is just now being flooded with campaign literature in the shape of a letter to tax payers, which contains the consoling information and suggestion, that through the practice of wise economy and peculiar executive ability, no state tax is to be levied this year.
This is a species of clap trap campaigning for which the administration is noted, and is in keeping with the policy pursued in dealing with half truths on the stump. It is a well known fact that the general expenses of the state for the past 20 years, with one exception, have been met by license money collected from railway and other corporations.
It is the height of nonsense for any single administration to claim credit for these conditions. They have existed so long that a direct tax would be considered a matter for investigation.
There will be no dividend declared to tax payers this year however, much some of them may be infatuated and deluded by a magnetic leader.

Taxes are one of things that never decrease, because values and expenses are always on the increase in a healthy state. The farmer found his taxes higher last year than the year before, and he will pay more this year than he did in 1902. The general expense fund represents but a fragment of taxation, as every tax payer has long since discovered. There's nothing in the claim, "no taxes this year" but a bid for campaign support.

THE STONE CRUSHER.
The following communication from Alderman Matheson, will be read with interest. It is frequently stated that the cost of the crusher plant was $10,000, while this statement is not true, as the alderman suggests, yet the fact remains that the city invested $4,000 to replace it after the fire.
The Gazette still maintains that the plant should not have been dismantled and that the product for three months this fall could have been used to good advantage on the streets. Any man familiar with machinery knows that it deteriorates more in a year's idleness than from a year's wear to say nothing of the expense of dismantling and restoring. The mayor was right in his recommendation to the council.

Dear Sir:—
I do not wish to burden you or annoy you unduly with matters pertaining to our city and city government, but, having noticed some allusions and statements in your editorial columns with reference to the stone crusher, I venture to make a few observations. The matter has been carefully investigated by some of us, and we are certain that we are right from a business standpoint in not operating the crusher this fall. The crusher plant has been enclosed and stripped, and it would cost considerable to get it in condition for operation. As we view it, the expense of starting it would be substantially duplicated in the spring. The machinery and plant are in good condition, and, to the best of our knowledge and belief, the plant is not deteriorating unduly because of idleness.

We could not use very much of its product on the streets now. Much repairing has been done upon the streets, and they are not now in such condition that stone from the stone crusher would be used to advantage this fall.
The bins at the stone crusher would soon be filled, and, if we should operate it for any length of time, the product would have to be stored somewhere and again handled later. It is difficult to handle crushed stone when it has to be shoveled into the wagons, and the only way successfully to dispose of it is to take it directly from the bins into the wagons. It seems to us poor business policy to go to the expense of starting the crusher when most of the stone would have to be stored until spring. Why not wait until spring, and then use the material as made?

We have been assured by the owner of the quarry that the lease can be extended, on terms such as we now have, for one year or more. You sometimes make statements as to a $10,000 plant. If I am correctly informed, the plant in the first place cost less than $5,000 and could be duplicated for about that amount. We are carrying all the insurance upon it that we can get, which is $500. You intimated in one of your editorials that there was no insurance. In our view, there is not a great deal there to be destroyed by fire, and even if the plant were wholly destroyed (which is not possible), the loss would fall not only very much short of $10,000 but probably much short of $5,000.

The danger from fire is not great. You speak of keeping a watchman there. If we should adopt the policy of keeping a watchman there, it would cost us $3.00 for every 24 hours. I think, when you consider the matter, you will conclude that the exigencies do not warrant the expenditure of $3.00 per day to watch the crushing plant, for the purpose of avoiding fire.

I certainly do not mean to be prejudiced against the crushing plant, notwithstanding what has been said about it, and the ill that it seems to have brought upon the city. We have the plant and the investment; I think we ought to use them; and I believe, will use the plant to good advantage in the spring. I have no preconceived notions to support, but, after careful investigation upon all sides, I am firmly convinced that true business policy and wisdom demand that the plant should not be opened up this fall.

These observations are made in a friendly way, and with an appreciation of your influence and support. As I said to you verbally, my hope is that we may co-operate for the interests of the city. With best wishes, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
ALEXANDER E. MATHESON.

IS MR. ADAMS RIGHT?
Congressman H. C. Adams surprised his audience at the banquet, the other night, by the statement that adherence to party lines is as necessary to good municipal government, as it is necessary to state and national government.
He was perhaps not aware that Janesville is just now experimenting with a reform administration but he claimed that the experiment wherever tried had been spasmodic and in the end, a failure.

He backed up his statement by claiming that men were more important than measures, and that if good men were selected by both parties, that there would be no cause for complaint.
He regarded the primaries as of vital importance, and urged loyalty to party.
There is no question about the soundness of Mr. Adams' advice, as either of the great parties have a host of good men who are thoroughly competent to fill any office acceptably. He overlooked the important fact however that this class of men are not only not office seekers, but that many of them absolutely refuse to allow the use of their names for any public position.
This is an age of stubborn facts and they must be dealt with as they are presented. The ideal city government is non-partisan, but it may be too ideal to be practical. Janesville will know more about it when the experiment is more fully tested.

No matter how clever a thief may be sometime he meets his Waterloo, and then all is over and St. Helena is not quiet enough for him.
Banks all over the country are failing. When you hit one big institution a dozen other card houses fall in rotation.

Before Dowle can get a hold in New York he will have to show the lambs he has something really better than the trough where they drink daily in Wall street.

Japan certainly had the world at large with them when they started in to bluff the Russian bear.

PRESS COMMENT
Washington Post: We have a quiet notion that there will be a closed season in London for banquets to American boundary commission.

La Crosse Leader and Press: After the Milwaukee inquisitors got through uncovering all frauds in the county and city government, they should answer the vexing question: Which of the daily papers of the Cream City instigated the investigation?

Chicago Record Herald: Dowle has shown that it pays to advertise. People who wish to draw crowds must first get their names in the papers.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Canada, it must be confessed, does not approach us in the right way. If she wants us to consider any proposal she must, to make, let her first of all forget Alaska and put on a pleasant expression.

Chicago Record Herald: A feeling of hostility to America is reported to be springing up in Russia. If this is carried to far we may retaliate by eating only Sandusky, Ohio, caviare.

Racine Journal: Every few days some new candidate for governor is brought out, which, of course, does not displease the governor, as his support will be kept well intact.

Madison Journal. Governor La Follette is keeping his eye on the state university these days. Next spring the caucuses are to be held, and every vote will count in Dane county.

Appleton Crescent: That was a mean burglar who robbed an Oshkosh minister's wife of her gold watch and pin the other night. Might as well have stolen from an editor's family.

Washington Star: Some scientists are talking seriously about the possibilities of journeying to the moon. The fact that the moon is even colder and more uncomfortable than the north pole will make it alluring to many explorers.

Superior Telegram: And now the shipbuilding trust's affairs are being aired and Mr. Morgan and Mr. Schawab are asked to explain some of their ways which seem as strange to the public as did those of the American to the noted "heaven Chinese."

Washington Post: The conference of the National Civic Federation has reached an agreement that in case of financial depression wages of laboring men will be reduced, and that the laboring men will not stand for it. Nice to have problems of that kind to settle in advance.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: Mr. Cleveland says he would rather have his son a great bridge builder than president. The idea was naturally suggested by the industry with which Bryan bores holes in the third term pontoons.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: Dowle's efforts to win converts to Zion by hurling at his auditors such elegant phrases as "dirty birds," "lars," "stink-pots" and "accursed trash" do not seem to succeed as well in New York as they do in the seclusion of Zion. Evidently among the enterprises of Dowle's city there is no manufacture of mouth washes.

Eau Claire Telegram: Five candidates are in the field for the republican nomination for governor of Indiana, and Wisconsin, one of the greatest political storm centers in the country, hasn't more than one such candidate in the field, and technically not even one.

the large array of get-rich-quick schemes that are being floated in this country. America appears to be the Mecca of this robbers.

Fond du Lac Reporter: Perhaps the people of the towns where the assessors found no watches tell time by the sun. Seriously, though, what is the use of attempting to tax watches, pianos, and similar articles, separately? Why not lump them all in as a part of the household furniture?

Most people do, especially the business men. So much so in fact that "HALLEY" couldn't paint them fast enough. He sent for Burkhardt "the man from Milwaukee." STRANGE SIGHTS SEEN ON FRIDAY

WONDERFUL ELECTRICAL STORM
SWEEPS OVER COUNTRY.

AFFECTED TELEPHONE WIRES

Queer Lights Seen in the Heavens—
Was Felt Worse in Chicago.

It is not probable that many Janesville residents knew that on Friday night and early Saturday morning one of the fiercest electrical storms swept over this section of the country, playing havoc with telegraph wires near Chicago and doing damage to the telephones in Chicago. The manager of the Western Union lines here noticed the effect upon his wires, and long distance connections of telephones were slightly injured.

White Lights
Great arcs of white lights shot across the heavens, only to fade away and be succeeded by forms of light resembling immense plumes blown by the wind and curtains shaken by currents of air. The light was as white as that of an electric globe, and so far removed from the earth in the upper atmosphere that it was as indistinct as that of the milky way.

The play of the electric forces interrupted telegraphic communication in all parts of the country and affected the Chicago telephone service for minutes at a time. The atmospheric disturbance began at 1:30 o'clock in the morning, and reached its climax at 8:30 o'clock when it was said that Chicago wires had become surcharged with 675 volts of electricity, or enough to kill a man.

Wires Show Peculiarity
It was possible to send telegraphic messages when the wires ran parallel to the trend of the waves of the electrical currents, but no messages could be forced over wires that ran across them.

"My attention was first called to the phenomena half an hour after midnight," said J. E. Peit, chief operator of the Postal Telegraph company in Chicago, "when I learned that the wires of the telegraph lines of the Canadian Pacific from Montreal to Vancouver and Oregon were severely affected in the same way. The climax came at 8:30 o'clock, when we tested the wires in Chicago. The process of testing consisted of taking off the batteries and grounding the wires. As a result we found 450 volts on the positive current, and 225 volts on the negative current, making a difference of 675 volts. It was the most severe electrical storm in thirty-five years. The storm extends half around the globe. It is due, I believe, to sun spots, which are always accompanied by a display of the aurora borealis."

Reaches Europe
A dispatch from New York says a brilliant display of the aurora interfered with telegraphic service in that vicinity. Both telegraph companies reported trouble with their wires and all cables were accepted subject to delay. It was the first remarkable display of the aurora in that city in ten years, and it lasted several hours. The French Cable company gave notice that, owing to extraordinary electrical disturbances, it was informed by the European administration that business would be subject to heavy delays. From Duluth a dispatch was received saying that brilliant northern lights illuminated the heavens for half an hour about midnight. The display was pronounced the most beautiful ever seen along the southern shores of Lake Superior.

SUNDAY WAS AN IDEAL DAY

Crowds Seek the Country and Neighboring Towns—Many to Beloit and Rockford.

"There were larger crowds yesterday than any Sunday since the baseball season," said C. A. Potter of the Interurban company this morning. Yesterday was an unusual Sunday for the first of November and people everywhere showed their appreciation of the fact by enjoying the day in the open air as much as possible. Parties started early in the morning for trips to Beloit, Rockford and neighboring towns, and after ten o'clock the cars going south were nearly all comfortably filled, while after the noon hour there were many standing during each trip. The seating capacity of these coaches is forty-eight and during one of the afternoon trips the register showed that sixty-seven people left Janesville for Beloit and Rockford. In the evening the crowds returning kept the conductors busy until the last coach had unloaded at Baker's corner.

The local street car line carried many all day. The Washington street branch was perhaps the busiest, as many residents took advantage of what was likely to be the last really pleasant summer day this season, to visit the beautiful Oak Hill and Mount Olivet cemeteries. Some carried flowers to place tenderly on the graves of the dear departed. A few went to get out in the country once more before the first November storms spoil the beauty of the fall landscape and cover the brown stubble fields with the white coat of winter.

Those who were fortunate to possess horses or to procure them or had other means of transit made for the open country and the driving out around the river road was continuous all of the afternoon. There was every variety of equipage from bicycles to bright red touring cars.

Frank Hurley of Bennington, Vt., an expert on knitting machinery, arrived in the city last Friday and has entered the employ of the Lewis Knitting Co., in the capacity of machinist.

Orphan Asylums and Old Ladies' Infirmarys Ask Assistance from the Large-Hearted Man.

As a friend of the oppressed, but more especially as a champion of the lovelorn swain who with his maiden fair seeks refuge from parental interference in school-house doorways, Alderman Connell's name has become a household word in Wisconsin. He is daily receiving appreciative letters from sympathetic damsels and in his mail, also, are found requests for aid from orphan asylums, old ladies' infirmarys, and numerous other institutions of the kind.

Green Bay Letter.
One correspondent signing herself "G. Connors" sends a typewritten epistle from Green Bay. The envelope, head of the stenographer's employer is carefully blotted out. It reads as follows:

Dear Sir:
Your speech as quoted in today's Sentinel was very good indeed, and you certainly deserve to be congratulated. But, really, it was too funny, and you look so serious, too. Trusting the above will not overwhelm you, I remain
Sincerely,
G. CONNORS.

Another of these missives is signed only with initials. It is from Milwaukee and is signed only with the supposed initials of the writer. It reads as follows:

Alderman Edward Connell:
Dear Sir—You are a trump, I have not only sat on school steps but have had many a pleasant chat on church steps. I admire your pluck for talking the young people's part.

It is all oak and the various sets are finished the same which will all to the fine appearance of the rooms. There are special tables for the incoming and outgoing mails, distributing cases, mailing racks, map frames, paper cases and all of the special fittings seen in the larger post offices throughout the country. SOME SALES IN 1903 TOBACCO

MADE HERE AND ELSEWHERE
LAST WEEK.

TO AWAKEN NEXT DECEMBER

It is Believed That Big Market Operations Will Commence at That Time, After Leaf is Stripped.

Last year at this time the bulk of the tobacco had been sold but this year the majority of the sales will not be made until it has been stripped. Dealers have for some time been disappointed in the slow buying of the new crop and for the benefit of both buyer and seller it has been deemed advisable to delay all market operations until the real quality can be learned. Things may be expected to liven up shortly after Thanksgiving.

Some Sales Made
A few sales are recorded. F. H. Calladay in the northern district sold his seven-acre crop at 8 1/2 cents in the bundle and Ole Lee of Stoughton has purchased several crops. The inquiry after cases goods is steadily increasing. The Scofield & Colony packing of some 600 cases of 1902 is reported sold to Rickert & LaBoule of Milwaukee. S. B. Heddles' sale of 647 cases at good round figures has already been recorded in these pages. Fifty-one cases of 1901 put up by James Mitchell at Albany have been sold to George Hummel.

Crop Not Good
It is the general opinion that this year's crop in all sections of the state will not prove as good as that of last year. The wet weather of the past season is the cause of the assigned. The work of sampling still goes on in the various packing houses and the local dealers express themselves as perfectly satisfied with the results of investigations thus far.

COSTLY ATTENDANCE

(Original.)

I was standing on the quarter deck (this was before the time of bridges aboard ship, working out of New York harbor, when a man came up the companion way, looked wildly about him and gasped in astonishment.

"Well, my man," I sang out, "what's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said. "How did I get aboard this ship?"

"You probably skulked aboard, but you won't skulk now you've got aboard. You'll work your passage."

You see, we had so much of this sort of deadbeat that we'd got tired of it, and I didn't propose to be humbugged. The man was well dressed—in fact, too well dressed to make a sailor of or for him to stand heaving coal into the furnace. I looked him over and made up my mind to make a cabin boy of him.

"Now, see here," I said, "it is too late to put you ashore. You know that or you wouldn't have shown yourself till later. I've got to take you to Liverpool. You go to the head steward and tell him to get what he can out of you."

While I was speaking the man seemed to be trying to recall something. Then he thrust his hands into his trousers pocket, then into all the rest of his pockets, evidently looking for money. Then he turned to me and said:

"Put me ashore."

"Put you ashore? I would without your asking if I could. I've got the mails on board, and I don't lose an hour."

I was watching him like a cat and felt sure he was playing the emotions that would be expected of him under the circumstances.

"What am I to do, captain?"

"Do what I told you to do—go to the head steward for work."

He disappeared from above the companionway, and I heard nothing more of him till I went to my cabin, where I found a protest drawn up in legal form against my taking him to Liverpool and demanding to be put ashore. At first I was staggered, but I'd seen many a sharper dodge than that, and I assumed that the man had brought the paper aboard with him. I paid no attention to it and in a few days forgot all about the fellow, till one day he appeared in the saloon, where I was at dinner, and handed me a plate of soup.

"Used to waiting on table?" I asked.

"Oh, yes."

"Where have you done any waiting?"

"Summers—hotels."

"Like it?"

"It's the easiest job you could have given me, but it'll be rather expensive for you before my bill is paid."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that every time I hand you a plate of soup it'll cost your company $1,000."

I smiled good humoredly, being quite amused at the man's "gall." It was evident he was trying to bluff me into giving him a first class passage out and home again. Still the next morning I awoke before daylight and got to thinking about the fellow till I began to be worried. Caution said treat him as if you believed him. You'll lose nothing. Whereas if you don't and he's all right he may make trouble for you. But the matter had gone too far for me to retreat, and I took no action.

On the return trip, the second morning out, who should I see on deck, dressed in a jaunty English suit, puffing a good cigar, but my shagbald man.

"Good morning, captain," he said.

"What'll be the run today?"

I looked at him pretty steadily for a moment, then turned on my heel and went to the purser, who told me the man was down on the list as Nelson Brentwood of New York. I began to fear I was in for trouble.

Just before we reached New York, going into my cabin one morning, I saw on my bunk a paper. I opened it and read:

THE — STEAMSHIP CO.
To Nelson Brentwood, Dr.
Handling the captain five plates of soup $5,000
Other services as cabin boy 5,000
Loss of time 40,000
Total $50,000

I began to quake. I'd carried off some one, or, rather, some one had got himself carried off to get up a lawsuit to bleed the company. However, there would be no use now paying any attention to the matter. I ignored it, though I confess it bothered me.

Soon after we were docked, I was called on by the agent for a statement covering the case of Mr. Brentwood. I gave it and heard no more of the matter till the day before I sailed. Then I received an envelope addressed to Nelson Brentwood and a letter from the agent asking me to sign the communication in the envelope and forward it with other inclosures. The inclosures were an unrecipited bill of lading for Brentwood for handling him five plates of soup at $1,000 a plate and a check for $5,000. The communication was a humble apology for taking him to Europe against his will. I signed the letter and dropped the package in the mail.

When I returned on the next trip I got the explanation. Brentwood was a graduate of — college and during vacations had waited on table at summer hotels. He had studied law and was a brilliant but unsteady man. He had been employed in a case in which he was the one man living so well posted as to handle it successfully and was sure to win. The opposing counsel had given him a supper the night before the trial, got him drunk and shanghaied him, paying a large bribe to some of the company's servants aboard my ship. The affair cost the company $45,000, besides my bill for having a first class lawyer for a waiter.

Liquozone Cost $100,000

Yet We Will Buy a 50c. Bottle and Give it to You!

This company, composed of business, professional and medical men of ability, paid $100,000 for the right to make Liquozone. That is the highest price ever paid for the rights in one country on any scientific discovery. It was paid by us, after years of experiment with it, because Liquozone alone can kill inside germs without killing the tissues, too. Nothing else can destroy the cause of any germ disease.

and an excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter. Liquozone is employed in the largest hospitals, and prescribed by the best physicians, the world over. It is essential in any germ disease, for the cause must be destroyed, and nothing else can do it. Liquozone then acts as a tonic to bring back a condition of perfect health; for oxygen is Nature's greatest tonic. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. It does something that all the skill in the world cannot do without it.

Liquid Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Paul, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue. Liquozone does that. We spend 14 days in making each bottle of it, but the result is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

Kills All Germs.

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine never destroys inside germs. Liquozone kills them with oxygen—a tonic to you—the very source of vitality. It kills them because germs are vegetables.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

As follows—Anemia, Bronchitis, Blood Poison, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Coughs—Colds, Consumption, Colic—Cramp, Constipation, Catarrh—Cancer, Dysentery—Diarrhea, Dandruff—Dropsy, Erysipelas, Eczema—Erysipelas, Hay Fever—Influenza, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Leucorrhea, Liver Troubles, Malaria—Neuralgia, Many Heart Troubles, Piles—Phlegmonia, Pleurisy—Quincy, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Scrofula—Syphilis, Stomach Troubles, Throat Troubles, Tuberculosis.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on your local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay your druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever. Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

What They Are Doing For St. Louis'
Big Fair & The

IN the grandeur and originality of the sculpture which will adorn its grounds and decorate its buildings the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis will without question surpass all other events of its kind ever held in the world. Some of the work has been completed, but the greater part is still in the hands of the sculptors. Enough has been finished, however, to give an idea of its artistic merit and surpassing beauty.

In the production of the decorative sculpture for the exposition the duty of Louisiana purchase monument, designed by Emanuel L. Masqueray.

It is hard to conceive greater possibilities for magnificence and monumental effect than those which lie in the hands of the artists who have been entrusted with the designing of the three great cascades, which, extending for over two city blocks in length, pour their waters into the grand basin, from which they are distributed to all the lagoons throughout the park. The central cascade, surrounded by twelve massive groups, will be the work of H. A. MacNeil and is to be known as the "Fountain of Liberty." The two side cascades are being executed by Isidore Konti.

The side cascades represent the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, which were united by the Louisiana purchase, and Mr. Konti has modeled to portray "The Spirit of the Pacific," a flying female figure with an albatross. The bird floating in the air, calm and passive, typifies the peaceful character of the Pacific. The Atlantic is represented by a vigorous youth standing in the clouds with arm upraised and at his feet a soaring eagle. The three cascades, taken as a whole, give expression to the sway of liberty from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Charles Albert Lopez, who is working on a figure of Blenville for the exposition, says the problem of "pants" is very annoying to the sculptor, especially to one who does much portrait work. "The modern male costume is anything but picturesque, and when it comes to reproducing it in sculpture we are up against it," said the artist. "This figure I am working on has no such difficulties, for the costume is that of the early part of the eighteenth century and is very picturesque. Blenville was the French officer who in the time of Louis XV. became governor of Louisiana and founded New Orleans."

"I had a rather amusing experience in connection with the clothes ques-supervision falls upon Karl Bitter. As chief of the sculptural department he has prepared the sculptural scheme and awarded the commissions and is now engaged upon the monumental task of overseeing the designing of models and their enlargement into the figures of oftentimes heroic size which are to decorate the grounds of the fair.

Mr. Bitter has remarkable capacity for executive tasks such as the one now in hand as well as high artistic taste and excellent judgment. He is assisted by an advisory committee composed of such eminent sculptors as J. Q. A. Ward, Augustus St. Gaudens and Daniel C. French. His own experience with exposition sculpture dates back to the Columbian exposition of 1893, and he won general praise for the creditable performance of the task assigned him as director of sculpture at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo. Mr. Bitter's sculptural productions include a long list of noted works. A faint idea of the task assigned him may be obtained from the statement that there will be some 250 groups of sculpture on the grounds of the world's fair and over 1,000 single figures. The prospect is that these decorations will be notable not only for their profusion, but for their beauty and high artistic merit.

Passing through the principal entrance to the grounds, the visitor will behold a great monumental feature which Mr. Bitter has named "The Apotheosis of St. Louis" and the execution of which has been entrusted to Charles H. Nicholas. In the center of a vast plaza, surmounted upon a massive architectural base, will rise an equestrian statue of Louis IX., for whom the city of St. Louis was named. The city itself will be symbolized by a female figure sitting with outstretched arms in front of this monument at the foot of the base. The winged figure of Fame is whispering in her ear the names of those who have made her great, while through her hands passes an endless scroll of the famous deeds of her children. The carving in relief about the base of the equestrian statue and various other figures grouped about it tell the story of the city's birth and growth.

This wonderful monument and two notable equestrian statues of Joliet and De Soto will form the chief features of what will be known as Monument court. Looking up from this court, one will behold the waters of the three great cascades tumbling from an elevation into the grand basin. At the northern end of the basin, in the broad boulevard which bisects the main group of exposition buildings, will stand the tion," continued the sculptor. "At the Charleston exposition I did a group for the negro building representing the progress of the colored race. The man was portrayed with bare breast and back and the woman in a picturesque field costume. The group was better from the artist's standpoint than it could have been with the man wearing a Prince Albert coat and the woman a tailor made gown, and the art committee awarded the composition a medal. But the colored folks were indignant and wanted me to clothe the group so that it would show that the people of their race in this country to day were not behind the fashions. On account of this controversy the group was removed from the negro building to another part of the grounds."

George Edwin Russell has modeled two beautiful groups for the St. Louis fair that are to be placed on either side of the main entrance to the palace of liberal arts. The subjects are "Music" and "Science," and each is a very effective expression in sculpture of the ideas and sentiments connected with these subjects.

It is often interesting to learn the circumstances that have led sculptors to take an interest in particular objects. For instance, James A. Fraser, who has been commissioned to do an equestrian statue of a Cheyenne chief, to stand on one of the approaches to Art hill at the exposition, was given the work because of his knowledge of Indian life. Mr. Fraser having lived near an Indian reservation as a boy and mingled much among the red men.

About the fine arts palaces the most eminent sculptural efforts of the exposition will be gathered, for these palaces are to be permanent. D. C. French and Louis St. Gaudens will execute the two great groups representing "Sculpture" and "Painting" which will ornament the entrance.

In no previous exposition have so many noted artists been engaged upon the sculptural decorations, and in no other have the pieces been designed upon so magnificent a scale and in such great profusion. In its sculptural features alone the Louisiana Purchase exposition will be without parallel in the history of world's fairs.

CONEY ISLAND IS SCORCHED

WATER PRESSURE A HANDICAP

Firemen Fight Against Great Odds, but Finally Check the Spread of the Flames When the Wind Shifts Against the Fire.

New York, Nov. 2.—Fire believed to have been set for the purposes of loot Sunday afternoon cost two lives, destroyed about 300 cheap hotels and other resorts at Coney Island, together with Henderson's restaurant and music hall, valued at $250,000; Stouck's hotel, restaurant and dance hall, valued at $300,000, and Feltman's summer garden, valued at $100,000. The aggregate estimated loss is $1,000,000.

The fire started at 3 o'clock and was under control at 10 o'clock. Living in the various hotels were about 500 people, and the fire spread with such rapidity that most of these people lost their possessions and are homeless.

Covers Three Blocks.

Besides the two persons who were burned to death, fifteen were injured, one of them fatally. The fire started in a place called the Hippodrome, just off the Bowery. Witnesses whom the police secured declared they saw the place set on fire by two men, and these men, living in the Albatross hotel, were arrested and accused of arson. The burned area covers more than three blocks, and extends nearly from the ocean to Surf avenue. Practically the whole of the Bowery was wiped out.

The fire department was greatly hampered by the lack of water. The fire jumped across Surf avenue to Luna park, which was on fire several times, but the fire department succeeded in extinguishing the blaze each time at this place before a great deal of damage was done.

Wind Favors Firemen.

There was another element besides the energy of the firemen which proved the salvation of the greater and better part of Coney Island. The wind, which was nearly due west when the fire started, by half past 5 had switched around to the northwest and was blowing with increasing force until it completely flanked the fire in the direction in which it had been advancing. The broad sheets of flame, instead of leaning towards the masses of buildings towards the east and north, now turned seaward, where already everything inflammable was going up in smoke.

Effect Many Rescues.

The fire was marked by rescues, not alone by the police, but by citizens. Before the fire had been an hour under way the police could do nothing more than try to keep the 50,000 sightseers out of danger. The reserves from all the precincts within ten miles were brought there. While the work of rescue and saving was going on the true spirit of Coney Island asserted itself. The Ferris wheel man was an instance. The wheel was just out of the burning district, and he hurriedly summoned his engineer. Quickly fires were started and the engine oiled, and in half an hour there were barkers announcing "The finest view of the fire for only 30 cents." They coined money, too.

Loss Is Heavy.

Upon Mr. Stouck and Mr. Henderson the heaviest loss will fall, each losing more than $300,000, while the remainder is distributed among a hundred or more residents of the resort. It will be comparatively easy for all the buildings to be restored with the exception of the music hall and the dancing pavilion.

That the spread of fire was not greater was due to the foresight of the builder of Feltman's Hotel. He had passed through fires of 1896 and 1900, and when he began again he first erected a high brick wall between his building and the adjoining structure. This cut the blaze off, and firemen saved the building.

FACTORY WORKS NIGHT AND DAY

U-Pin It Company Is Rushing Work to Keep Up with the Demand.

Over at the old Woodruff factory the U-Pin-it machines are running night and day to catch up with the orders for the pins that are bound to make Janesville famous. At the present time there are enough orders on the hook to keep the factory running for several months and as yet the travelling men who began last week to again seek trade have yet to be heard from. Carson, Pirie, Scott have a large order in which calls for rush work and President Mills is rushing work to fill it.

One mail order house in Chicago is placing orders every day and say the demand is becoming greater and greater as the pins are becoming known. In a letter received yesterday they announced that from the present outlook they can take the entire output of the present factory.

As soon as the few cases of tobacco stored in the remainder of the building can be moved new machines will be put up and the supply of the factory will be doubled. At present a large force of girls are at work carding the hooks and eyes and the machines are being worked to the limit. Mr. Mills is more than pleased with the prospects. He says:

"I will go east next week to order six more machines—four for the smaller size and two for the larger. Those who have subscribed for stock are expected to take their certificates immediately or their names will be cancelled for non-payment. The large jobbing houses have written me that the U-Pin-its are taking hold with remarkable rapidity and they will order almost our entire capacity before the end of the week if the present demand continues."

"We shall have a meeting soon of the board of directors and the question of raising the price of stock to seventy-five cents or a dollar a share will be brought up. This will be done owing to the many orders which have come, the getting of the factory into running order so quickly and other encouraging features."
